

COMMUNITY MEETING!

Massachusetts PFAS & Your Health Study: Hyannis

What do we know about people's past exposures to PFAS chemicals from the drinking water in Hyannis? Learn more about the study's initial findings on Cape Cod and what they mean for you and your family!

MONDAY, JUNE 3, 2024
BARNSTABLE TOWN HALL

12:00 PM

AND

5:00 PM

There will be two chances for the public to hear about the study. The program at 5:00 p.m. will be a repeat of the one at 12:00 p.m. Both will include a Q&A session with the public. Each program will last 90 minutes. Light refreshments will be served.

About

The MA PFAS & Your Health Study is one of seven projects funded by the CDC as part of a national health study on PFAS. Nearly 800 adults and children across Hyannis and Ayer participated in the study to help scientists understand the effects of PFAS in drinking water on human health.
